U.S. Probation Officer Action: The Court is respectfully advised the defendant has severe mental health issues. Throughout supervision, she has displayed manic behaviors and her psychotropic medication needs require daily attention. The defendant has applied for social security disability but has been denied. She is currently working with an attorney to petition the board for an appeal hearing. The defendant has no means of financial support other than family and at this time, is unable to make any payments towards the restitution balance. Given the circumstances reported, it is respectfully recommended that no action be taken. Her ability to pay will be reassessed following the disposition of her pending appeal.

Accordingly, the Court reserves the right to revisit this allegation in the future. In addition, should the defendant incur any further violations, the Court will be immediately notified.
